COMMENT OF

Tourist Industry THE report of the working

L committee on tourism is a pretty convincing, as well as persuasive document, it leaves the reader, as apparently it has Government, with the conviction that the time is overdue when tourism, as a Hongkong industry of the first magnitude, needs to be properly organised and publicised.

Having decided that the creation of a Hongkong Tourist Association wholly desirable, even necessitous, the committee would have been forgiven if it had allowed its enthusiasm to influence its other recommendations, But | in fact its proposals are hended.

Sensible recognition is given of the need to advance. slowly towards implementstion of a constitution, and the view is expressed that "experience of its practical operation should be secured before it be given final | shape." Effect is given to this premise by the proposal that for the first three years the controlling board of the Association should be wholly nominated by the Governor. This can be considered as sage advice, [for it is inevitable that with an experimental institution of this kind, a period of trial and error began at 10 a.m. should be experienced,

By the same token it seems wise that in the early stages of development, membership of the Associainterest in the tourist industry, namely carriers, should be made a worth- under heavy guard, for achieving this should ping-up operations.

Demis Price goes convincingly to seed as the dissolute partner Carcy,, but the main attraction of "Port Afrique" is Pier Angell.

· Josephine and Men I recommend this to anyone with a sense of the ridiculous admiration for Glynis Johns and a penchant for British comedy. It is a delicated film.

Uncle Charles is a debonair gentleman of independent means, ctornally in fight from predatory females who think they are the answer to his collbate state. "Josephine and Mon" is his story, as related to the barman the Parasite's Club, The receiver of Jack Buchanna's confidences is Victor Maddern, one of the best of the up and coming character actors on the British screen.

Castle Rising. No more driving for me, vowed the Rev. Edward Montagu Plumptre. At 83 he has decided he is too old to motor.

With this self-imposed ban he turns his back on the little blue car that, for 22 years, has carried him round his Castle Rising, Norfolk, parish.

He took the step after two appearances in four weeks at the local police court for alleged careless driving. He was acquitted both times.

But the other day, at his Castle Rising home, the tall and greying, weatherbeaten clergyman, once Rural Dean of King's Lynn, said: "I have decided after these two accidents to give up driving.

BIG THIRST COULD CURE A HUNGER FOR POWER By JOHN SEWELL

CICK of all the row over Suez? So am I. consider, instead, the great futures of Uganda, Kenya and Tanganyika, once they are fully supplied with power and water.

Abutting on these British territories is the second largest lake in the world-Victoria Nyanza. You could sink the whole of Ireland into its 26,200 square miles. Water to spare for all three, once it is put to use.

Are the British doing anything about it? Certainly. In the past two years irrigation engineers have surveyed all three territories. One report has been presented, two will be delivered within months. All are confidential.

But already from the Owen Falls scheme, where Victoria Nyanza spills over to the north, a British-built dam will soon be providing 700 million units of electricity a year.

A GREAT JOB

New industries, new factories, hundreds of square miles of barren scrub converted into smiling productive fields ... A great job is waiting to be done. But there is a snag. And who do you think can stop it? Nobody but Nasser.

By the side of the Owen Falls dam sits an Egyptian engineer. His job is to see how much water goes through the dam, and report if the flow is not sufficient. For this is where the Nile begins, and it supplies Egypt with a large part of her water.

Britain is supposed to tak Egypt's permission to embark on any irrigation schemes which may decrease the flow from Like Victoria.

The agreements were reached under conditions far removed from the present-day situation. There was then a great prospect that, through friendly cooperation, the nations depending on the Nile waters could make the deserts fruitful and bring prosperity to the wastelands.

BROKE PLEDGES

name of Egyptian sovereignty, he has broken his pledges and selzed the Suez Canal, creating for himself a stranglehold on Britain's seagoing commerce. His apologists in Britain say "Why not? The Sucz Canal runs through Egyptian territory."

What if Britain were to say: "We noted much more water for irrigation schemes in Uganda, Kenya and Tanganyika, Tho headwaters of the Nile flow from our territory. In the name of British sovereignty we propose to use them as we see fit." If Nasser eventually gets away with his grab, a time might come when Britain would have to consider a "spuce for the gander" policy of this kind. Her present policy is far removed from anything so drastic. But it would be well to let the people of Egypt_and the rest of the world-know that the principle of squeeze in the name; of national sovereignty can work both ways. (COPYRIGHT)

Adrian Seligman's first daughter was born and spent the first 18 months of her life on a world cruise, "and only once fell down a companion hatch, and wasn't even bruised. We put a spring door at the head of the hatch, laced the ship's guard rails with light cord, and netted her cot in gimbals to prevent her from getting thrown about, and she was as happy as anything." he told me.

Like Rosamund Elverson who says Rupert is just as likely to meet death on the roads, Rosemary Seligman thinks there are greater domestic dangers than life on the ocean wave: ' ... i.

Dr Edmund Pye, who travelled with his wife to the South Seas between 1952-55 in a 29ft. boat, gave an equally optimistic medical opinion. "As there's sufficient steerage to take I plenty of fresh flood and water in a 20-tonner, there's nothing against it," he told me from Mizzen Cottage in the wilds of Esser.

CNDON will witness a unique fashion event on November 5. the first time that six of the great Paris couturiers have agreed to a joint showing of their current collections. Balmain, Desses, Fath. Helm, Patou and Lanvin Castillo will be showing the highlights of their winter collections at the May Fair Hotel in aid of the National Fund for Polio Research.

Paper patterns of six of the medels will be available to the public and each will be presented British moterials.

FOR EYERY WOMAN

The Parade will stress the fluidity of present fashions - full skirts or slim' lines. This is essentially a plason in which every woman can find the line that suits her best.

Our Paris artist Crosthwait has been given sclusive permission to make advance sketches of the styles that will be shown. Here are three of the models being sent.

Each of the six Paris fashion houses is sending one of its loveliest mannequine to London to present the new styles.

collecting isn't a hobby for millionaires. There are many hundreds of drawings and lithographs and even paintings to be bought for a few pounds which are well worth hangingif you like the picture."

The Evening Mood

DECENTLY, I wrote about the battle of long or short evening dresses. I was for short ones. Now, Princess Margaret comes down on my side.

I've been asking the bestknown evening beauties to open their cupboards for me and count up their evening dresses of both kinds. MRS JOHN WARD says:

"If I can choose, it's always a short dress. But on a tiara occasion, it has to be long. In the season in London, I wear a long dress about three times a week."

LADY MELCHETT: "Always short when I can. I have two long dresses which seldom wear and three short ones, ending a little above the ankle," MERLE OBERON: "I've a mania for long ovening dresses, for when I dress up I like the whole works. I've brought about 20 long ones with me and I've another 50 at home."

SARAH ROTHSCHTLD: "I have three short evening dresses and one long one which I'm having cut short I was never a deb, so I rarely go to balls."

CLAIRE BARING: "Always short, and really short. I have only one long one and it is rather broken and old. I know a long dress looks lovely at a ball, but they get so trodden on."

MARGOT FONTEXN: "I have five long and five short. The long ones give such grace and dignity that I would be sorry to see them

It looks as though the clue to Princess Margaret's choice lies in her age. The underthirties like em short. The over-thirties, even those with a beautiful figure, acmire the splendour of a swirling skirt.

WE sincerely believe that no other fountain pen has ever elicited such deep and widespread admiration as the Parker "51" pen.

Here is a fountain pen so coveted that some nations have awarded it as a decoration for valour and meritorious service!

There is a reason for this and for the way the Parker "51" looks and feels in your hand, 68 years of pen-making experience have designed this wonderful instrument so that you . . . the writer . . . obtain a host of "intengibles" found in no other pen. For example, its weight and shape have been calculated to a nicety so that you get perfect balance ... so important for fatigue-free long letter writing. The Parker "51" pen will give you decades of trouble-free, smooth-as-silk performance:

The Parker "51" has come to stand as a symbol of good taste to those who know and want the best in everything they own.

We earnestly suggest that you visit your Parker dealer for a thorough examination and trial of this remarkable writing instrument. What a wonderful idea for a distinctive and thoughtful gift!

Her Majesty the Queen will open Britain's nuclear power station at Calder Hall next week, and listeners to Radio Hongkong can hear a broadcast of the ceremony and a description of the scene by Raymond Baxter, relayed from the BBC, London, on Wednesday evening at 8.50.

This will be an historic event of world importance, for Calder Hall will be the first nuclear power station in the world to feed electricity in substantial quantities into a national electricity network.

The output of electricity from Calder Hall will reach about 65,000 kilowatts. The production of electricity, however, has not been the sole object of building Calder Hall; it has a second object, to produce the nuclear fuel, plutonium, of which stocks are being accumulated.

A ten-year programme of 10.00 "THE PAJAMA GAME" nuclear power in Britain was announced in February 1955. Joy Nichols, Edmund Hockridge, 1 Calder Hall is a preliminary to Ehrabeth Seal and Max Wall from this programme cather than the London Production, Chorus and part of it.

TUESDAY'S CANCELLATION WAS BLATANT BETRAYAL OF OUR FOOTBALL

Says I. M. MacTAVISH

The blatant betrayal of the Hongkong football public by those responsible for the iniquitous last minute cancellation of the All-Hongkong-Malaya match on Tuesday after tickets had been pre-sold underlines once again the utter disregard shown by some football officials for those who do so much to support the game in the Colony.

People who are in complete ignorance of the circumstances are saying harsh and hard things about the Hongkong Football Association. Such criticism is completely unjustified for the HKFA had nothing whatsoever to'do with the cancellation of the game and in fact many of its Councillors got their first inkling of the whole affair through the news- was looking for a job. papers.

SPORTS ROUNDABOUT

SHORTAGE

By DAVID JACK

Be prepared for a Football League swoop on clubs with inferior floodlighting. Frequent complaints have been made by referees who feel unable to follow play accurately on certain grounds.

Cheup lighting systems are bad enough for friendly fixtures, but when vital League points are at stake the situation becomes intolerable.

"goal" Chelsen scored a through the side netting in a friendly floodlit game at Luion recently. But Luton are by no means the worst offenders.

YOUR BIRTHDAY ... By STELLA

SATURDAY; OCTOBER 13

PORN today, you have patience, endurance and a straight-D forward, clear-thinking mind. You are able to correlate facts, dull and dry as they may be, and present them in a highly entertaining and instructive manner. Since you are also fond of children, you would make a fine teacher or leader in educational ideas. You enjoy harmony and peace above everything else and will go the long way around to avoid goving into needless argument. Yet, if it becomes necessary to defend your ideals against criticism, you will be the first one to put up a fight!

Your memory is exceptional and you are always interested in progressive and novel ideas. Since you have a backlog of solid information upon which you may always call, you are able to judge whether a new idea is practical or merely a day-dream which cannot possibly be implemented. You have learned through experience what is good and what is false.

Since you are highly adaptable, you can fit into almost any type of environment with ease. Just make sure that, because of this, you don't endure situations which should be changed! In other words, don't let yourself get stuck on a routine job, just because you are conscientious and accurate in detail. You are, by nature, a leader and should utilise this telent in your work Your affections are strong and deep and your marriage should be an exceptionally happy one if you wed someone with similar cultural and intellectual background.

Among those born on this date were: Ferdinand VII of Spain; Walter Gulman Page, artist; John Wesley Hoyt, educator, Molly Pitcher, patriot; Charles H Slockton, naval hero; John Davies, noted engineer; and Irene Rich, actress.

Radicals French Hold Stormy Meeting Party

By HAROLD KING

Lyons, Oct. 12. Shouts, cheers and counter-cheers broke out in the Radical Party congress here today when a representative of the "old guard," Senator Tony Revillon, attempted to urge control of the party by a committee instead of by its vice-president, M. Pierre Mendes-France.

senator was practically unable questions submitted by him to to make himself heard.

and silent, while the 75-year- the 50 Radical Party deputies old chairman of the session, M. would follow him in Parliament. Edouard Daladier, who was -Reuter. France's representative at the Munich conference in 1938, tried to restore order. With about two-thirds of the delegates loyal to Mendes-France, the final issue of the debate was scarcely in doubt.

A draft motion on policy in Algeria adopted by a commission this morning proved embarrassing to those Radicals who are members of the Mollet Government.

Realistic

It stated that a "clear, realistic and recolute policy ought to have been affirmed at the same time as defensive military measurr< were laken."

This phrase is considered by the Radical ministers, including M. Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, Defence Minister, as reflecting unfavourably on the line of the French Cabinet, which they Pakistan were all out for 199 have been supporting. Mendesleft for play in this first ever | Mollet Cabinet last may but the other Radical ministers did no.

The Algerian issue will continue to dominate the congress directly or indirectly.

For about 10 minutes the time to obtain approval on all the congress, it seemed more M Mendes-France sat pale doubtful whether majority of
